I replied to your invitation to join the 10am call today with a request that you patch me in by calling my office number, since I am working at home and the call will rollover to my Blackberry. Since I haven't received a call, we will have to catch up later. I will be on other calls for much of the day and am crunching to get a major letter out on another project that is due today, so if we do not connect today, perhaps we can do so tomorrow.
